By The Pond

Another year has gone by. The club had a very successful year overall. We gained many new members, had a booth at the flower show, had a terrific Pond Tour, another great auction and a successful (except for the rain) show. We ended in the black on all the events this year so we actually have some money to spend for next year's budget.

As for next year, we still need a show chair for next year's show. If you start well in advance it is not that hard of a project. Chase will also need folks to host next year's meetings.

Hope everyone will make the social at Flat Rock this Saturday. There will be a terrific batch of new fish to see and/or purchase. As the fish won't be there till Friday night (supposed to have been last week but first opportunity for import turned out to be Friday at 6:30 pm) we will definitely get first pick of this year's crop. There are 85 boxes of fish coming in; we will be up half the night unboxing fish. Not only are there all sizes and prices coming in but there will be some high dollar fish (already sold) that will simply be amazing to see. The social event will be held in the greenhouse so don't let the weather deter you from coming. Lunch will be in the 12-2 area so we will make that the "official" time of the meeting. I will be there early and if you want to come down starting about 9-10 that will be fine also. Things will go on till late afternoon so come whenever you can. As this is the social please bring some kind of side dish/dessert and we'll have a great meal.

Well, I guess that's all for this year except for one last koi event before winter gets here. Next year the first event (in general) will be the Central Florida Koi Show in Orlando. If you have never been, you ought to start making plans to go down there. This is probably the largest show on the East coast and definitely worth the trip. It will be March 7-9, 2014. The Judges (AKJA) will also be having their annual seminar there and will be giving seminars thru out the show so it will be a onetime opportunity to hear from many Judges at one time and place.

SEE YOU SATURDAY!
